Generally, for all operations

Prices for handling of container vessels are valid for modern Container vessels, equipped with large hatches, and with cell-guides.

CMP reserve the right to collect additional charges for all other types of vessels. These are based upon level of productivity obtained during the individual expedition.

- Rates for special work, e.g. in connection with handling of average cargo, cargo damaged by water or fire, or when special handling conditions come into play, are fixed upon agreement in each individual case.
- In the case of inconsistency between the information received by CMP and the actual facts as to cargo and ship on which CMP has based its price quotations, CMP reserves the right to change the agreed prices.
- The rates do not include ships or cargo dues. These rates are stated in paragraph 1 and 2.
- For all agreements between customer and CMP General Conditions of Danske Havnevirksomheder are valid (DHAB 2016) i.e. the agreement is solemnly regulated according to these regulations. Attention is especially drawn to part 4 of DHAB 2016 regarding the extent of CMP's possible liability for delay or loss of or damage to goods. DHAB 2016 is available at CMP homepage www.cmport.com
- All cargo is stored for the owner's account and risk and is not insured by CMP.
- CMP is only liable for damages, demonstrably due to faults and neglects on CMP's part or caused by CMP's employees. Any damage must immediately be notified to CMP. The notification must be given in time for CMP to inspect the damage before the cargo or the ship leaves the port. Failing this, the claim will not be acknowledged by CMP.

Customs

CMP together with its clients and partners operates in a customs regulated environment. This means that handling and transport of goods through CMP premises is subject to customs regulations of the European Union and custom legislations of Denmark and Sweden. CMP is obliged to fulfil these regulations and legislations which further means that clients and partners with a business relation to CMP, handling their goods on CMP premises, also must comply with these regulations. For general information, please refer to http://ec.europa.eu/taxation_customs/index_en.htm and legislations for Denmark and Sweden. For questions of local CMP conditions, please find more information on <http://www.cmport.com/>
